Scoping & Feasibility Study Management

Engenium are leaders in scoping and feasibility study management. We have extensive experience in producing studies for a significant number of junior, mid-tier and blue-chip mining companies, both in Australia and internationally.

We have a unique study philosophy which not only focuses on the study at hand but will also consider your project as a whole, throughout the entire project life-cycle. This includes financial modelling, approvals, constructability and operational issues. We will assess, select and define the most economic and practical options available to progress your project, gain finance and place it on the path to production.

By taking advantage of Engenium's experience you will be able to negotiate off-take agreements and supplier contracts and secure financial partners and investors. We have the experience and knowledge to significantly increase the financial value of your resource assets and identify the quickest and most cost effective means to get your project into production.

Our Expertise

The key to our success is a holistic understanding of the metallurgy, mining, processing, product transport, port logistics, supporting infrastructure and approval issues that need to be addressed to identify a viable project solution.
